Description:

This brick American Foursquare style building was moved to this site from its original location on Baltimore Street in 1980. It was constructed as the Lutheran parsonage in 1930. It is a two bay structure with the typical hipped roof and hip roofed dormer. Windows have single pane sash with the front bay having a triple window and the west front second story bay having a double window. The front entrance is in the east bay of the north elevation and is sheltered by a one-bay Colonial Revival style gabled porch.

The parsonage was initially constructed in 1930 on the lot immediately west of its present location, but was moved to its present location when the new church building was constructed in 1980.
